

Global livestock production could decrease by up to 7.5% by 2050 due to antimicrobial resistance.

Antimicrobial resistance can increase the cost of food production through increased use of antimicrobials. It may also lead to additional stock losses and higher food prices for consumers.

A M
AGRICULTURE

